LAST MONTH: Finally someone took the board of directors up on their invitation to attend a board meeting. Art Bridge came to the meeting and had some interesting suggestions and related a first aiders nightmare or dream depending on how you look at it. When you have an hour to spare have Art tell you about it. The Saturday morning technical session was well attended and everyone gained from the practice. It did bring out that there should be no unnecessary talk while the rescue is in progress. The older members knew this but now the new members do too. The family picnic again was fun for those who could make it. Vooleyball turned out as the sport that everyone wanted to play and after nine games the whole gang was ready to eat. In place of our regular meeting we accepted the invitation of the Altadena Mountain Rescue Squad to a lecture and demonstration on snake and insect bites. The speaker was the noted neurologist and herpetologist Dr. Findlay Russell of the University of Southern California and the Los Angeles County General Hospital. The evening was well spent and everyone learned some very interesting facts and fantasy on the treatment of poisonous snake and insect bites.

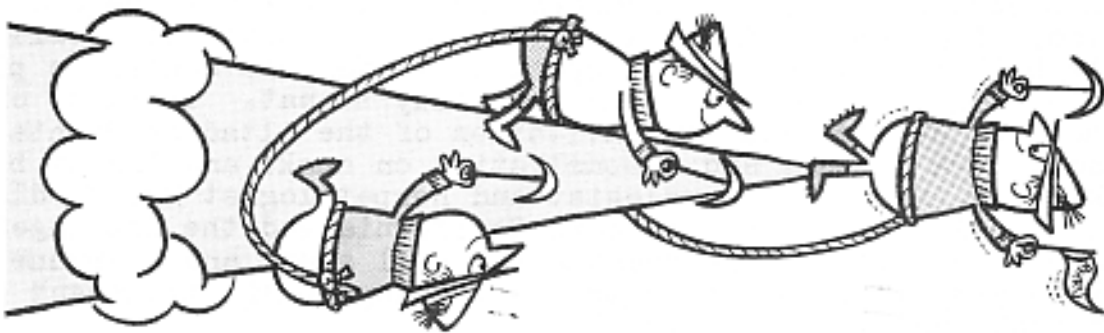

TRAINING SESSION: There will be a special simulated technical rescue on Mt. Rubidoux on 5 July. Meet at the bottom of Mt. Rubidoux (west end of ninth St.) at 1900 sharp. Bring your equipment for a technical rescue. We will handle the complete training session as if it were a actual mission.

BOARD MEETING: 1900 on 19 July at the home of Jim Fairchild.

FAMILY BACKPACK: Jim Fairchild is planning on leading this outing for anyone who is interested in the weekend of 22-23 July. It will be a hike into Slushy Meadows for the evening camp. This is an easy ideal way to start the family backpacking. The details are not firm and can be molded for the needs of the group participating. Departure will be either Friday evening or sometime Saturday. Contact Jim if you are interested in this trip.

REGULAR MEETING: 1930 on 26 July at Highland Outfitters. Final details for the High Sierra training session will be made.

TRAINING SESSION: This weekend (28-30- July) will be in the Palisade Glacier area out of Big Pine. With the outstanding winter we had there will probably be plenty of wet snow. Plans are to climb Mts. Sill, North Palisade and Thunderbolt. If you cannot attend the regular meeting and plan on going contact Jim Fairchild by 2130 on 25 July to advise him of your intentions.
